

Meet Joyce Kulhawik Emmy Award-winning A&E Critic

Kulhawik, best known as the Emmy Award-winning Arts & Entertainment Critic for CBS-Boston (WBZ-TV1981-2008) has covered local and national events from Boston and Broadway to Hollywood. As the first arts reporter/critic in the U.S. to appear every weeknight as part of a local TV news team, Kulhawik gave journalistic stature to arts reporting and greatly enhanced her station's commitment to community service. She is currently President of The Boston Theater Critics Association and a member of the Boston Society of Film Critics. Joyce has performed as a narrator with many orchestras over the years including the Boston Pops, Boston Musica Viva, The New England Philharmonic, and The Concord Orchestra. She has co-hosted nationally-syndicated movie-review programs with Roger Ebert and Leonard Maltin. Find her reviews online at JoycesChoices.com.

A 3x cancer survivor, Kulhawik testified before Congress on the 20th anniversary of The National Cancer Act, and helped launch the American Cancer Society's first HOPE LODGE in Boston which provides free lodging for cancer patients. The ACS honored Kulhawik with its National Bronze Medal for her work.

In 2010 Kulhawik received the New England Emmys Governor's Award for her distinguished career, which includes Emmys for the WBZ series/campaign "You Gotta Have Arts!" and team coverage of the World Trade Center attacks, being among the first on the scene. In 2007 she was among the inaugural inductees into the Massachusetts Broadcasters Hall of Fame. The recipient of countless awards for her career and advocacy, Kulhawik also holds an Honorary Doctorate in Communications from her alma mater Simmons College, and has an endowed scholarship in her name at the Berklee College of Music.
